Why do you want to serve on the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin board?	I believe that smaller producers need a voice, and knowledge to remain sustainable and competitive. Hopefully, gain insight as to how to have better pricing and keep Wisconsin milk and cheese #1
What else should dairy producers in your area know about you?	We (our farm) are smaller dairy producers. We are all challenged by poor prices. I hope that if elected that working with my husband and brother in law, that I can connect and help struggling farms. I am currently working on my dissertation on the sustainability of the smaller dairy producer through Walden University. I represent the State of Wisconsin for the FUE Leadership program. This is sponsored by the Wisconsin Farmers Union. This program teaches folks in agriculture leadership skills to apply at local levels and where ever else.

Why do you want to serve on the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin board?	Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin has evolved to be one of our main pathways to connect the farm to the consumer. Today, more than ever, there are many different types of consumers we need to reach: from traditional grocery buyers to tech savy millennials; most are unclear of where their food comes from and what is involved to produce it. Clarifying the farm to fork connection is a large task, and DFW programs help tremendously to accomplish it. I feel it is important for dairy farmers such as myself to be involved in guiding the direction DFW takes in our industry's marketing efforts to continue to grow demand for Wisconsin dairy.
What else should dairy producers in your area know about you?	My wife Amber and I are partners in Viaduct Holsteins LLC. The partnership also includes my father Don, my brother Dennis, and my sister Mikki. We currently milk about 410 cows and have 320 heifers on our farm southwest of Loyal. We take great pride in our family, farm and employees, and focus dedication to the care of our cattle, stewardship of the land and quality of our milk every day.

Ag-related organizations or affiliations	Edge, DBA, Peninsula Pride
Community involvement	Kewaunee County Dairy Promotion and dairy ambassador for the Kewaunee school district, Bridge Point Church Childrens Ministries
Why do you want to serve on the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin board?	I was approached by other members of our county board about it.
What else should dairy producers in your area know about you?	My family and I are on a 4th generation dairy at our current location in southern Kewaunee County along the shores of Lake Michigan. We milk a herd of Fleckvieh cattle and also direct market beef and market hogs to customers through local butcher shops. In January 2019 we lost our calf barn due to a fire. In October 2019 we were able to move into our new calf facility. Through the pain of losing all cattle in the barn, we were able to move forward and change what needed to be and do what was best for our cattle and our farm. Dealing with the tragedy has better taught me how to handle difficult situations. Unfortunately, those of us in the agricultural industry find ourselves in a difficult situation. I look forward to being able to serve our industry through these difficult times.

Ag-related organizations or affiliations	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ 1st term director with National Dairy Board ▪ I have served 3 years as Vice-chair of the Farmers Relations, Consumer Communication committee
Community involvement	While our daughters while were actively involved I was too, Clarno 4H, Green County Adult Leaders, Monroe FFA/Alumni, and Clarno UMC. The youngest graduated from high school last spring. My attention is now mainly focused on our state DFW board and being a informed/involved director for Wisconsin on our National Dairy Board
Why do you want to serve on the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin board?	I have enjoyed my time serving the direction of WMMB and now DFW. Over the past years the dairy industry has seen many changes as well as has DFW. There have been focus changes, program changes, advertising, and communication (mainly due to digital and social media) changes. Serving on the board of DFW one has a pulse on the association and how the funds from our dairy farmers are allocated. DFW is vital to us dairymen in creating awareness for WI dairy and keeps our products recognized, sought after moving.
What else should dairy producers in your area know about you?	I am no different than any other dairy person in my district. I have heart and soul for this industry and cant imagine any other life.
